Ice Warrior Medical Training

It is essential that every person in a team pushing the boundaries or operating in extreme and remote environments can cope in a time of crisis and coping successfully involves three things:

- Knowledge - knowing what to do
- Skills - having the skills to be able to resolve the crisis
- Preparation - planning for the eventualities and practising the scenarios

Ice Warrior Medical Training addresses all three of these crucial facets in the event of a medical crisis and is considered a vital part of being a competent expedition member.

This is an intense and enjoyable 4-day course. The training is based in the Remote Emergency Care tradition of concept and scenario-based learning. Participants receive practical and understandable guidance for pre-hospital recognition, treatment and transport of sick and or injured patients. A very strong emphasis is placed on care in the polar environment and the teamwork required to create and maintain a safe work environment to ensure optimal outcomes for the patient.

The scenarios used to support the class work will give you a strong sense of empowerment in these potentially stressful situations that could arise in a remote setting. They draw on the first aider's creativity, problem solving and memory to correctly diagnose and treat the patient. You are never alone! You will be supported by your teammates and will feel the intense satisfaction of giving high quality care under challenging circumstances.

On completion of the course you will be certified at Level 4 REC, which includes CPR. This certification is recognised by most UK based outdoor programs including Mountain Leader.

We have a policy of continual improvement. All course delegates are given a feedback form to complete at the end of their course.

You'll find no matter where you are in terms of skills development there is a place for you within the programme and we measure and record your development throughout, so whether you're heading towards an Ice Warrior flagship expedition or considering your own expedition you can join us at any stage. The only pre-requisite for any of the core training is an open mind and the right attitude - Positive!

How will you learn?

My style is one of coaxing it out of you, wherever possible. We rarely lead you by the nose. We have found that this method results in a much better level of retention and therefore competence. This combined with providing the relevant chapters of Jim's Expedition Training Manual and employing the very best of instructional staff makes us confident of the thorough nature and high quality of training.

Where?

Bellever YHA, Bellever, Postbridge, Devon, PL20 6TU

The property is in the centre of Dartmoor National Park surrounded by open moorland. Once part of a Duchy farm, YHA Bellever makes for a comfortable learning environment with the nearby East Dart River, Bellever Forest and Tor ideal for training.

Accommodation is bunkhouse style but very comfortable. Our host, Maria, cooks some great home cooked food using local ingredients - very welcome after an intensive day of training.
